What we will do with your complaint

The Panel has a statutory duty to handle complaints about the Police and Crime Commissioner. This is done in line with the Elected Local Policing Bodies (Complaints and Misconduct) Regulations 2012.

We will first check that the Panel has the power to look at your complaint.

We will write to you to explain how we will deal with your complaint or tell you if it should be sent to another organisation.

If your complaint alleges criminal conduct the Panel must record it first and pass it to the Independent Office for Police Conduct to investigate. We will let you know if we do this.

Sharing your information

The Panel may share information contained in this form with the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner to establish whether a complaint falls within the Complaints and Misconduct Regulations (and remit of the Panel), and to fact check statements made.

In order to progress complaints, we need to obtain all the required background documents from the person the complaint is about, and these are likely to include personal information about relevant parties. The Police and Crime Commissioner has a public task to cooperate with complaints made against them, and for this reason will share the information with us.

On some occasions, even if there is not a complainant, we may decide that it is in the public interest to pursue the matter as a conduct matter, and the Police and Crime Commissioner may then have a duty to share personal data about you with the Panel.

If a complaint is recorded by the Panel the subject of the complaint will be sent a copy of the complaint unless to do so might prejudice any criminal investigation or pending proceedings, or would otherwise be contrary to the public interest.

The Panel must pass complaints alleging criminal conduct to the Independent Office for Police Conduct (IOPC).
